A 3D rendering of a hexagonal lattice structure, likely a carbon nanotube, showing a repeating pattern of hexagonal rings. The structure is composed of dark grey hexagonal units with white triangular voids, arranged in a staggered, three-dimensional grid. The perspective is from a slightly elevated angle, looking down the length of the structure.

A large digital display showing the number 86. The digits are rendered in a white, blocky font against a dark, textured background. The number 86 is positioned in the center of the frame.
